

The best on line solution

Having a digital identity is something more than having a presence in Internet.

Our on line image shows our willingness to say things, to communicate with others. With very simple and economical tools we can reach those who are interested in us and inform them of our news, share documents, videos and sound clips, debate or give information on new products or offers.

The graphic appearance is vital. But, above all, it should be a useful and efficient tool, simple to use by the visitors and the website administrators and which provides performance in the briefest period of time possible.

This is Interdixit philosophy for any on line challenge.

As no project is identical to another, and the range of solutions is immense, we present a small sample of the work we have carried out in order to meet our clients' needs. In these jobs operability, accessibility, easy management, design or economies in the investment made have been given precedence.
